Only Monroe Gives You
Latitude of Choice
So You Needn't "Over-buy"

To prove this statement, we would like to send you at no cost or obligation a copy of our new 1966 business figuring machines catalog, as explained below. It was designed as a handy reference for Monroe salesmen.

Very likely you already know Monroe has developed over a 50-year period a large line of desk-top computation equipment. You may even be familiar with our simplest machine -- a hand operated, yet efficient, adding machine. Or at the other extreme, you may be familiar with our electronic printing calculator, the sophisticated EPIC 2000.

But in between these two machines there's a world of choice from the complete Monroe line for the buyer who has the facts ... facts that let you choose intelligently. You pay only for features you need and will use which often means a considerable saving to you.

What's more, our 1966 catalog has no particular axe to grind. Each machine is candidly appraised and its features described. You see at a glance why some machines cost more than others, and can judge for yourself as to whether they are worth the difference in price to you.

Whether or not you are in the market right now for new or additional computation equipment, we feel sure you will be interested in having our new catalog. To be sure your copy reaches you personally, please check the enclosed reply card for accuracy, then return it. You will receive your copy promptly -- at no obligation.

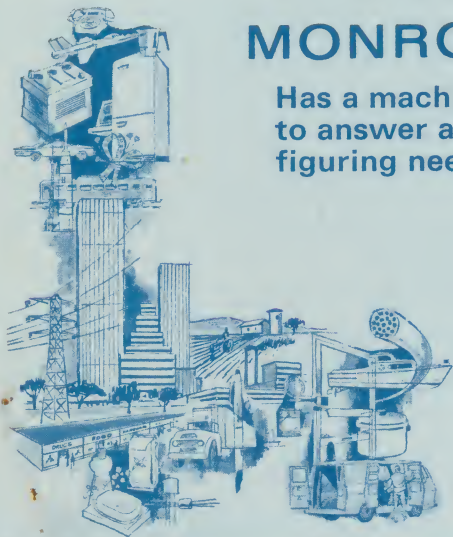

Sincerely,
